Contract decision week for most school districts

Livermore exception

Murray School District teachers will vote today on a tentative contract agreement with teachers and board members with other Valley districts scheduled to follow suit on their own tentative pacts in the next week.

A special meeting of the Murray bargaining unit was held Monday, purportedly so a faction of mostly junior high teachers could express their concerns over the proposed pact.

Murray school board members will hold a special meeting Wednesday night at Murray School to discuss the Frederiksen School conversion bids situation and, depending on the voting outcome the previous day, consider ratification of the tentative contract agreement. The meeting begins at 8 p.m.

The Pleasanton district teachers' representative council meets today with a recommendation to "accept" or "reject" going to members of the bargaining unit when they vote Thursday.

The Pleasanton school district trustees will probably consider ratification of the tentative agreement at their regular bod session Wednesday, Nov. 2.

Pleasanton board members will also meet Nov. 1 to appoint a new member to bring board strength to five. A candidates night Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Harvest Park School library will give the public a chance to meet and hear the seven persons seeking the position.

Members of the San Ramon Valley Educators Association will gather at Monte Vista High School in Alamo Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. to hear details of the pact and vote. Balloting will take place between 4:15 and 8 p.m.

Amador teachers will consider the proposed agreement before them Thursday. Votes will be tabulated at the Uniserv offices in Dublin.

No date has been set for the Amador board action on the pact, though the next regular meeting is not until Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Livermore teacher and board representatives held a long negotiations session yesterday. Robert Milling, of a negotiating consultant service in Sacramento, is representing the board.

The Livermore district is the only Valley one not to reach a tentative pact accord.

Dead man faced charges

PLEASANTON — Police yesterday reported no new leads to the killers of Alfred 'Fat Freddy' Maurelio Gutierrez.

Gutierrez, 40, a former treasurer for the Hell's Angels, was discovered dead in his apartment at 2323 Santa Rita Road Saturday afternoon. He had a severe wound on the right side of his head and several puncture wounds on his body.

A police spokesman said it was the city's first murder since 1949.

Residents of the apartment complex said a stereo in Gutierrez' unit had been playing loudly for several days, so manager Elisa Madonia used her pass key to enter and found the body.

Police arrived at the scene and found signs that a violent struggle had taken place. The coroner's office said Gutierrez had died several days earlier.

Several apartment residents reported hearing a loud argument coming from his unit several nights before.

Gutierrez was arrested in January, 1976 on suspicion of selling cocaine after a three-months investigation by police.

He was charged with possessing cocaine for sale and possession of amphetamines and hashhish. Livermore Municipal Court Judge Mark Eaton later dismissed the charges, saying that police had conducted an illegal search and seizure by using binoculars to peer through the open windows of Guiterrez' apartment.

An about face for Veteran's Day

As President Carter was laying a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier yesterday, he was also marking the last time that grave holding a World War I soldier will be honored in October just to accomodate employees who want a three-day weekend.

Veteran's Day was traditionally celebrated on Armistice Day which marked the end of W.W.I in the 11th month, on the 11th day, during the 11th hour of 1918.

But in 1968 the federal government changed that date from Nov. 11 to the last Monday in October, assuming most people would rather celebrate on a three-day weekend than the true historical date. That assumption proved wrong and the action resulted in a whirlwind of confusion as some offices stuck with the traditional date as others went to the new holiday in October.

After incessant lobbying by veterans groups and others, Congress voted two years ago to move the holiday back to Nov. 11, but delayed it until 1978 to accomodate calendar makers.

Bus turnaround unpopular

LIVERMORE — City Council members heard recommendations from a group of concerned citizens on Norwood Road and Shamrock Way regarding their proposed transit system route last night.

However, the council decided to send the recommendations to the transportation committee for further study.

A spokesman for the group, John Powell, told the council that "we want to work with you, this is not a protest, just a recommendation."

Noting that the residents were in favor of the bus route, he pointed out that Norwood Road was not a feasible turn around for bus route 253.

Powell said Norwood Road is too narrow for a bike trail, much less a bus route.

Mayor Helen Tirsell accepted the recommendation, but said the council felt the best place to handle a route question would be with those who know the subject best, the transportation committee.

Committee Chairperson Barbara Shaw said no meeting is scheduld now, but the residents will be notified when there is one.

On another item, council members debated the method of accepting bids for construction of th multi-service building. Assistant City Mannager Ed Schilling recommended accepting the bid from Paxton Construction Co. and presented the council with a pared down base bid of $589,940.

The original base bid was $608,240, but the proposal was to deduct some exterior landscaping, interior carpeting, and the gas and electricity hookup. However, Councilman Glen Dahlbacka questioned not receiving new base bids from the other two companies with these proposed deductions.

City Manager Bill Parness said it is a common practice to accept the lowest bid, and when in excess of the budget, remove certain items to make the bid within the budget limits.

Pleasanton shouldn't let more permits

PLEASANTON — Even though sewage flowing through the Sunol Treatment Plant has dropped approximately 250,000 gallons a day due to the drought, city manager Clay Brown is still suggesting the city issue only 140 new sewer connections next year.

In a report to the city council, Brown writes that he expects a rebound in sewage flow when the drought is over. When rain comes, Brown estimates sewage flow will increase back to the former level of about 1.5 million gallons a day.

Council members will consider Brown's report at their meeting tonight at 8 p.m.

Only two citizens turned out for Supervisor Valerie Raymond's second public forum in the Valley last Saturday. It means either apathy or things are going so well on county issues that hardly anyone is concerned, said Raymond.

One of the people who did turn out heard Raymond's views on why the county fair board should come to agreement with supervisors' wishes to cut the current membership by five and have five more supervisor - appointed directors.

Two bow out of race

PLEASANTON — The list of candidates seeking the vacant position on the Pleasanton Joint School District board has dropped to seven with the voluntary withdrawal of Lula Wilson and Ann Hunter.

Mrs. Wilson informed board president Betty Nostrand that she didn't feel she could devote the time necessary to board duties if selected. Mrs. Hunter was recently appointed to a district health advisory committee and has expressed an interest in concentrating on the committee's activities.

Vallecitos quake study goes on in East

PLEASANTON — Geologists from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) who probed for earthquake faults at General Electric's Vallecitos Nuclear Center are back in Bethesda, Md., today assessing whether or not G.E. should shut down its test reactor.

The two NRC geologists toured two trenches on the site Saturday with a team of seismological experts from the U.S. Geological Survey, the State of California, and two private consultants hired by G.E.

The trenches which were dug two weeks ago are 200 feet long, three feet wide, and range in depth from 10 to 13 feet.

After hand-picking the trench surface clean, the team visually surveyed and logged various features of the trench walls. According to a G.E. spokesman, this logged information will be plotted against aerial photos and the earth's surface features to determine existence of faults and their exact locations.

With this information geologists can tell what magnitude the faults might be, how active they are, and what potential danger exists to the Vallecitos facility.

"We really aren't at a point to answer all those questions right now," said G.E.'s spokesman Ken Clemens.

"Presently the experts are tied up between meetings and examining the trenches," he said yesterday. "We certainly expect to hear from NRC's geologists this week."

G.E.'s consultants — Earth Science Associates and the Engineering Decision Analysists Company, both of Palo Alto — were hired to study the earthquake situation after the U.S. Geological Survey issued a report in September showing two new faults passing near the site.

The report, written by Darrel Herd estimated that the Verona Fault passed within 200 feet of the largest nuclear reactor at Vallecitos. Herd's report also showed the Las Positas Fault having a Richter magnitude of 6.5 and passing within 8,000 feet of the Vallecitos site.

Secretaries— respect them

Secretaries don't get any respect. So says a Livermore Lab employe who conducts workshops on secretarial professionalism.

She contends that a secretary does more than make the coffee and answer the phone — she is the hub of the organization and should get the recognition and pay she deserves.

Armed robber gets cash from 7-11 store

DUBLIN — A man armed with a revolver took an undisclosed amount of cash from the 7-11 store at 11920 Dublin Green Drive Friday evening, the sheriff's department reported.

The night clerk told officers that a man walked in about 7:45 p.m., looked around the empty store and then produced a gun, demanding money from both cash registers.

The suspect fled on foot westbound on Silvergate Drive. He is described as a black man, 20-25 years old, about 6-foot-3, clean shaven with a slender build.

Deputies lifted six fingerprints at the scene. The investigation is continuing.

$18,000 in valuables taken from San Ramon home

SAN RAMON — Burglars netted more than $18,000 in valuable furs, silverware and other items Saturday when they broke into Gunter Von Kotze's Ascencion Drive home, sheriff's deputies reported.

Von Kotze said the burglars broke in sometime after he left home at 6 p.m. Saturday. His wife discovered the theft the next morning.

Among items taken were a mink coat worth $3,500 and a lamb coat worth $3,000, he said.

The burglars cut open a bathroom window screen, pushed open the window and then entered the house, deputies reported. The investigation is continuing.

Arson, burglary at Livemore Paint Center

LIVERMORE — A fire that caused an estimated $15,000 in damage to the Livermore Paint Center on Rincon yesterday was apparently started by burglars attempting to over their tracks, fire department officials reported.

Burglars entered a rear window and stole $10 in coins before starting the fire, a department spokesman said. The fire started in a pile of cardboard near the rear door.

A car was spotted leaving an alleyway behind the store, police reported. The investigation is continuing.

Youth arrested for child molesting, drugs

LIVERMORE — A 17-year-old Livermore youth accused of molesting a 3-year-old boy was in possession of suspected amphetamines when he was arrested Friday, police reported.

The suspect was arrested following a complaint by the victim's mother that he had sexually molested the child. Police found three tablets on the suspect that tested positive for amphetamines, officers reported.

The suspect was booked on suspicion of child molesting, oral copulation with a minor, and possession of a controlled substance.

Passerby slugs him with chain

LIVERMORE — A man servicing water softeners on Brookfield Drive Friday was hit over the head with a chain-stick device after exchanging greetings with the suspect, police reported.

William Colegrove said he was storing an empty tank on his truck when a stranger walked up and said, "Hi." When Colegrove turned away, the man hit him with the chain, knocking him down. The blow opened a two-inch cut on his scalp.

The investigation is continuing.

Gun confiscated at Rincon Street carnival

LIVERMORE — A man allegedly carrying a loaded nine-shot pistol in his waistband was arrested at a carnival on Rincon Avenue Saturdy.

Sam Cleveland Edwards, 33, of Pioneer, was booked on suspicion of possessing a concealed weapon.

Burglars hit public storage lockers

LIVERMORE — Seven lockers at PS Public Storage on Portola Avenue were burglarized recently, police reported.

An initial investigation showed that at least three televisions valued at more than $1,000 were missing. One television was later found by its owner on Interstate 580, smashed to bits along the roadside. Police theorized it had fallen off the back of a truck driven by the burglars.

Padlocks to the stalls had been pried off, police said. One locker had been tampered with but no entry was made. Tere are no suspects.

$3,680 in valuables taken from Meadowlark home

LIVERMORE — Burglars took $3,680 in televisions, stereo equipment and other goods from a Meadowlark Street home over the weekend, police reported.

Burglars apparently used a glass-cutter to make a hole in a bedroom window and gain entrance. Michael and Christine Isabel were away when the burglary occurred.

The investigation is continuing.

Autos at service station burglarized

LIVERMORE — Auto parts valued at $440 were lifted from two vehicles parked at the Springtown Gulf service station on Bluebell Drive Sunday, police reported.

A tire and rear bumper were taken from a pick-up truck, and two mag wheels were removed from another vehicle. There are no suspects.

No burning issues—Raymond

DUBLIN — Alameda County Supervisor Valerie Raymond's first citizens' forum in this community drew exactly two citizens, other than the expected local dignataries from VCSD and the local Chamber of Commerce.

It was Raymond's second public forum in the Valley and a contrast to the dozen or more people who showed up earlier this year for a forum in Livermore.

"I can only conclude that there are no burning issues before county governmet or people don't care much," Raymond said about the turnout.

One of the two people read press accounts of Raymond's insistence that the county fair board drop five of its member - appointed directors to make room for five appointed by supervisors.

The person wanted to know why Raymond was "picking on" the fair board. Raymond said she is not picking on fair directors, but feels supervisors ought to have more input on fair policy.

"Some counties appoint all fair directors or have direct control over the fair," said Raymond. "We're not asking for that. I think if supervisors appoint more directors, it will better reflect the overall makeup of the county in regard to ethnic and male - female balance.

Oakland residents, for example, are a large percentage of the annual fair's users, so that community ought to have input about how the fair is run, said Raymond.

"It's important that any group, including the fair board, have some turnover, a breath of fresh air," said Raymond. "I'm looking for an evolution on the fair board, not a revolution."

Raymond plans to have a public forum every four months or so. She will schedule the next one for Fremont. The first one in that community had no one attending, apparently because of the lack of newspaper publicity in that area, said Raymond.

Hospital's critical care unit is due

LIVERMORE — The critical care unit at Valley Memorial Hospital, being constructed to house facilities for patients in the intensive and coronary care units, is now three-fourths complete.

The new unit will contain 10 beds — five for coronary care patients, three for intensive care patients, and two beds for either coronary or intensive care.

When finished, the project will provide an additional 2,600 square feet of space at a cost of approximately $525,000, of which $450,000 is for construction and $75,000 for equipment.

Patients are scheduled to move into the newly constructed section the middle of November while remodeling begins on the existing unit. Final completion is expected sometime in February.

Included in the expansion project is a separate family waiting area containing an intercom system connected with the nurses' station. A separate room for doctors' dictation and nurses' conferences is also being added.

All new coronary monitoring equipment has been delivered and is ready to be installed in the unit. The monitors cost nearly $50,000.

Construction is nearly complete on a small building behind the ospital to house a future outpatient department expansion and dditional emergency generator equipment necessary for the project. Expansion of the outpatient department will not begin until the present project is completed.

Chief engineer Edward J. Colonna said construction had proceeded reasonably well considering delays in material deliveries which had put the project one month behind schedule.

Holiday back to November

Most members of the Veterans' of Foreign Wars and the American Legion in the Valley found it blasphemous to change the holiday and continued to celebrate Nov. 11 no matter what the federal government did.

"By putting it on a Monday, the government just made Veteran's Day into another three-day weekend. If they had gotten away with it the first thing you know they'd try changing Christmas from Dec. 25 just so someone could have an extra-long weekend," argues Jane Picardi of Pleasanton, a member of the Ladies Auxilliary of VFW.

A Pleasanton woman who served in the Marine Corps during World War II says the holiday "becomes meaningless to a lot of people when you can't count on a certain day." Virginia Canterbury - Lindahl spent yesterday working, but then she never has considered the fourth Monday in October as Veteran's day anyway.

"A lot of the associations that one would have with the day are gone now. Changing the date gave it a certain laxity that I think hurt the holiday's meaning."

A vote for Geldermann

HAYWARD — New Town, Harlan Gelderman's embattled pro8posal for a community of 45,000 north of Livermore, received a faint breath of life from the Alameda County planning commission yesterday.

The commission voted 5-2, with one abstention, to "reaffirm" its earlier split-vote support of the development. The matter now goes back to the county board of supervisors f 3-2 Sept. 30. The commission approved the development with one dissenting vote March 7.

In other actions related to the county's general plan for the Valley, the commissioners voted their support of the supervisors' revision of Carl Nipper's plan to develop part of his Pleasanton ridge property and approved an application for eight homesites at the southeast corner of Foothill Road and Castlewood Drive next to Pleasanton.

Edith Marshall had requested permission to build the homes on an 8.5 acre parcel but county staff has reported sewer hookups at the site could take three years because Castlewood's sewage treatment facilty is over capacity.

Nipper was granted a general plan amendment last month to allow development of the lower 40 percent of his 400 acres, about 180 acres in all. Paul Heck, president of the Rancho Sunol development company said the supervisors change was "workable," though he admitted it was not the one preferred by his organization.

Orloff—witness a target

OAKLAND (AP) — A gunman who was shot to death trying to break into a Richmond residence wanted to kill a key witness in the murder case of Black Panther leader Huey Newton, Alameda County Deputy Dist. Atty. Tom Orloff asserted Monday.

The allegation in Oakland Municipal Court was promptly denied by Newton's attorney, Sheldon Otis. Newton is accused in the shooting death of a 17-year-old girl and the pistol whipping of his tailor.

Orloff said at a preliminary hearing for Newton that three persons wearing blue jumpsuits and carrying weapons went hunting Sunday for Crystal Gray, who witnessed the August 1974 homicide of which Newton is charged.

However, instead of entering the woman's home, the gunmen picked the wrong house and tried to force their way into the nearby residence of Mrs. Mary Matthews, 56, a self-employed bookkeeper, Orloff said.

According to Richmond police Lt. Bill Hamberlin, Mrs. Matthews armed herself with a .38 revolver and shot and killed one of the men through a closed door. The victim was identified as Louis Johnson, 27, of Berkeley.

The prosecutor said Johnson had visited Newton in jail and had attended a welcome-home party for the defendant when he returned from Cuba this summer.

Newton, who is free on $80,000 bail, denied any association with Johnson and called Orloff's charge "another police provocation."

No leads in murder case

Gutierrez was recently re-charged with the same felony offenses in Hayward. A judge there ruled that such surveillance was not illegal, and the case was pending when Gutierrez was murdered.

The coroner's office will release a full autopsy report in a few days, a spokesman said yesterday. Police are continuing their investigation.

San Ramon man survives big jolt

SAN RAMON — A 30-year-old church worker survived a 21,000-volt electrical shock yesterday afternoon that knocked him out of the ditch in which he was working.

By contrast, the electric chair used in executions is only 2,000-volts.

Larry Groce of San Ramon was reported in stable condition last night at Kaiser Hospital in Walnut Creek.

He was excavating ne the First Baptist Church of Dublin - San Ramon, 20801 San Ramon Valley Blvd., when he accidently hack sawed into a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. power line.

Fire officials said Groce was alert but trembling when they arrived, and was complaining of numbness. His eye lashes and hair were singed, and he had a burn on his right finger where he was wearing a ring.

"Considering what he went through, he's in very good shape," said one fire fighter who was on the scene.

Groce was trying to find and remove a telephone cable when he mistakenly cut into the power line shortly after noon.

A PG&E spokesman said Groce cut through the plastic conduit that protects the electric cable running from a power pole to a nearby transformer.

SUBSTITUTES FOR EVERYTHING

Civilization is merely a conglomeration of substitutes. From machines to computers to wigs to margarine, all substitutes. Originally, coffee came about as a substitute for water. If you are now looking for a substitute for coffee, there is hope. A book entitled, "Mock Java" has just come hot and steaming off the presses.

The basic recipes for mock-java consists of roasted ground oats, roasted ground wheat, molasses and chicory (optional).

The instructions in the book say to use equal amounts of oats and wheat, 2 tablespoons molasses, then perk or boil. Add a pinch of salt, if desired.

Cocoa or carob, a chocolate substitute, may be added to those mock-coffee recipes which contain wheat.

For those who seek substitutes for other things, panama cigarettes are composed of sausage and rabbit tobacco. If anyone knows if you eat it or smoke it, let me know.

Cocoa bean cigarettes were recently put on the commercial market and were introduced in California. Will chocolate-lovers become addicted? Manufacturers have put processed peach pits into candy as nuts.

Cows' milk for children, which has been a substitute for human milk, has been imitated extensively. There is condensed milk, evaporated milk, and the ultimate: genuine imitation milk probably made of soy beans.

When man became less cave-man like and decided it was just too hard to go out and kill animals to get leather for his and his old lady's togas, he invented, or she invented, patent leather, made of cardboard, which was really imitation wood. Later came imitation patent leather.

It is clear by now that we cannot do without substitutes. Simulations and substitutions are too intimately weven into the very fabric of our lives. Every one knows the fabric of our lives is synthetic.

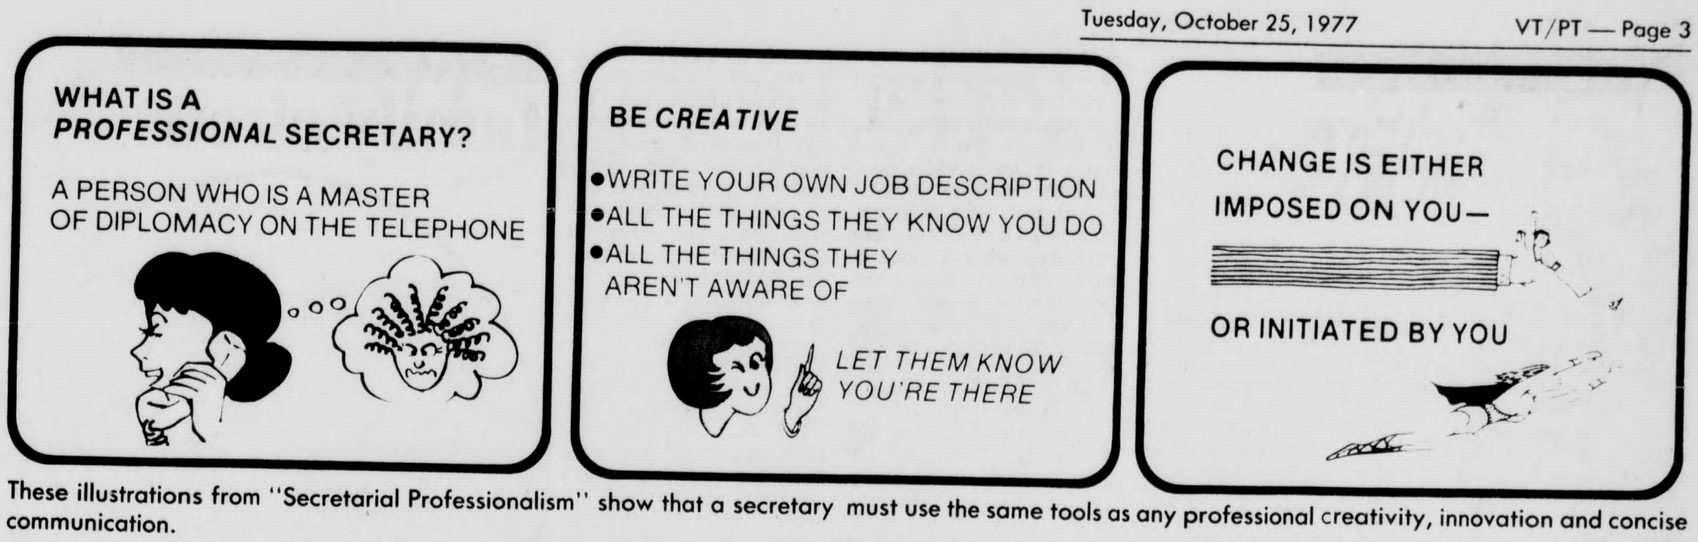
Without pace-makers, and artificial heart valves life just wouldn't be the same. In fact, it wouldn't be, in some cases.

Without substitute teachers, surrogate mothers, (baby-sitters), and stand-in fathers (Big Brothers) kids would be lonely.

Without computers to take the place of our brain power, civilization would falter, as there would be no more computer dating. Without paper mache boulders, the movies and television would go under.

The cowboys (actors) and the indians (not really) are shooting fake bullets at one another across a canyon (a sound stage) and suddenly an avalanche of fake rocks falls on them and kills the whole cast. But luckily, Professor Cryo is passing by with his truck full of equipment for freezing bodies and waking up the victim later when there is a cure for his ailment, an alternative to death.

He quickly goes to work and injects the blood substitute and suspends life and action until another day when science will bring back the actors, and the movie will continue. Isn't science wonderful. We won't even miss any of the action. It'll be almost just like real life.



These illustrations from "Secretarial Professionalism" show that a secretary must use the same tools as any professional creativity, innovation and concise communication.

Secretaries: not making coffee or playing 'office wife' anymore

No one called Meriwether Lewis just a secretary.

Everyone remembers him as half of the Lewis and Clark Expedition. But, the reason he got the job was that he knew the boss. Lewis was President Thomas Jefferson's personal secretary.

Wilma McGurn would like to see other secretaries get the credit they deserve too. McGurn is what she describes as a "professional secretary" though her title at Lawrence Livermore Lab is far more complicated.

She says "society sees everyone who sits at a typewriter or answer s the phone as a secretary. It pulls down the whole field."

In a booklet McGurn uses in workshops on secrearial professionalism she says a professional secretary must be skilled in communications, have a highly developed set of basic office skills and be a master of telephone diplomacy.

McGurn developed the workshop "a year ago last summer when Lawerence Berkeley Lab and Livermore Lab were having a one-day seminar on options for women.

"When women get together the first thing they say is 'how do we get the poor secretary out of the secretarial trap?'"

Being a secretary is a viable option in itself, said McGurn. "If you do indeed get into the field and strive to be a professional it can be one of the most exciting jobs there is."

You are the hub of the organization and see and hear everything , she said adding that there is "a certain amount of influence" also.

She said the minimum training for a professional secretary would be "at least business college or a two-year junior college course."

Most businesses do not set the same standards in hiring secretaries as they do in hiring for other fields, she said.

"They will hire someone right off the street to fill a desk in an office, but insist on a straight A average for a physicist."

For this and other reasons, contends McGurn, those who go into secretarial positions often don't have a good self-image. "Until we see ourselves as professionals, society won't."

Wilma McGurn

'The difference between being a professional secretary or an office wife is up to you!'

Nor, she said, do secretaries get the financial compensation they are worth, "but it is better than it used to be."

A Over 50 per cent of secretaries get paid annual wages of between $7000 and $11,000, according to a survey by the National Secretary's Association.

The survey showed only one per cent reported salaries below $5000 and fewer than five per cent said they get paid $15,000 and higher.

A lab survey on wages in the Bay Area indicates in 1977 office assistants are paid between $3.99 and $4.67 while executive secretaries make between $5.85 and $7.41 an hour.

The secretary's function is to make the boss's job easier, not to do his job for him, suggested McGurn. That includes knowing how he thinks, but not necessarily making the coffee.

"No, she shouldn't have to make the coffee, however there are so many ways to minimize and get around it, it isn't worth all the fuss," said McGurn.

Nor, she said is it professional to become motherly or an office wife. "That is not to say you don't develop a friendship," added McGurn. She said in 30 years of working as a secretary she has never run across any sexual harassment. She suggested a "professional attitude would negate any overtures."

"The difference between being a professional or an office wife is up to you," said McGurn.

"Change is either imposed on you, or initiated by you," states an illustration in the booklet. As to whether a secretary might be too agressive, McGurn replied, "Yes, I've been fired for being too agressive. It the risk you take."

Many bosses refer to secretaries as "my gal" but this isn't very professional, said McGurn who adds, "You can correct them any time."

The booklet's illustrations depict the secretaries as women and the bosses as men, and McGurn refers to the secretary as "she" and the boss as "he."

"It's a fact of life,'" contends McGurn. She said it is not intended to say secretaries are always women, "but, it is a fact of life."

The women's movement has had an effect on the plight of the secretary, said McGurn. "For example, before women's lib you were told 'you have to think like the boss.' Now the reference is 'you have to know how your boss thinks.'"

As more men enter the field, McGurn feels the status of the secretary will improve. "I'm sure, absolutely."

Basically, said McGurn, what a professional secretary is boils down to what any professional is. "Someone with high standards, who is highly motivated, highly ethical and highly skilled."

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My daughter's husband was raised in a strict, religious family. I think his father was harsh to the point where he was whipped if he did something his parents considered wrong. He's never gotten over this, but unlike those who repeat patterns when they have children of their own, he's reacted just the opposite. My grandchildren are never disciplined and all their father says is that he doesn't want them to be inhibited in any way. If they have an impulse, even if it's destructive, he feels they're free to act it out. When I visit them I'm shocked by what I see. The children write on the walls, and they're mean, little monsters. — C.B.

DEAR C.B.: I believe what your son - in - law is doing is very dangerous to the welfare of his children and to society, as well. Discipline is a sign of love, a reminder that the parents care enough about children to take the time to guide them in a way that will help them adjust to the demands of the world they're going to live in.

I suspect from your letter that your grandchildren are of preschool age. From what you say, they will be totally unprepared for the discipline of school. Total freedom is total chaos and ultimately, it is the child and those around him who are going to be injured by this.

Society needs inhibitions. A totally uninhibited society where everyone followed his impulses would be a world where murder, child abuse and rape are even more prevalent than they are today. Social psychiatrist, Dr. Alfred Messer feels that much of the violence that exists today is the result of our becoming an increasingly uninhibited society. It's becoming more acceptable to express anything, any feeling, at any time. We are on what he calls an "impulse orgy" and this can destroy us.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I am 42, am married, have one child, two older brothers and a younger sister. I've worked very hard all my life and am now considered fairly successful. For some time I've known that both my brothers have gambled their lives away. It started early with them and even as a kid, I realized they were fools when it came to money. Now, my sister's husband tells me that she's using food money to spend on gambling I can't tell you how this depresses me because I keep thinking, "My God, does it run in my family? Why not me?" I hate the idea of gambling and wouldn't risk a dime, but I'm really worried — D.D.

DEAR D.D.: Gambling doesn't run in families in the sense that it can be considered an inherited trait. However, the emotional problems that most compulsive gamblers have often begin in the home. For this reason, it's not surprising that many times, two and three members of one family will have this addiction.

You're extremely fortunate in having the emotional security and self - esteem that in some way protects you from the urge to take a chance on almost anything. Some gambling is harmless and can be a beneficial, relaxing diversion, but compulsive gambling is always destructive. Nobody is quite sure how many compulsive gamblers there are, but some think there are as many as six million.

Dr. Robert Custer, an authority on compulsive gambling, feels it is a behavior disorder, a psychological addiction. Often, these addicts use gambling as a way to relieve a kind of deep psychic pain. This pain may come from repressed anger produced by difficult situations the person doesn't know how to deal with. The pain may come from a general feeling of inadequacy that began early in childhood.

Be glad you don't have the problem. You might suggest Gamblers Anonymous to your brothers and sister. They all need help.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "HOW DID THE SANDWICH GET ITS NAME?"

SHEILA SPELTZ MINNEAPOLIS, MN

A. THE SANDWICH WAS NAMED FOR THE EARL OF SANDWICH. HE INVENTED THE SANDWICH AS A SNACK TO EAT WHILE HE WAS GAMBLING

When you spread peanut butter and jelly between two pieces of bread, you are making a sandwich.

The sandwich was named after the Fourth Earl of Sandwich, an English nobleman who lived in the 1700s.

He is remembered, in part, for his notorious gambling and, according to tradition, he invented the sandwich while playing cards.

Sandwich was such a compulsive gambler that he did not want to take time away from the card table to eat a cooked meal. Instead, he ate pieces of roast meat served between slices of bread during his games.

The snack became popular because it could be easily prepared and served and eaten without the use of knives and forks.

Today, sandwiches can be made from a variety of tasty fillings and can be served hot or cold, toasted or grilled.

They can be eaten as giant three-deckers or prepared as dainty appetizers and in many other forms.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB–I am 56 years old and feel just great. However, I was in a department store last week and had my blood pressure taken for a dollar. The attendant said it was just a little high. I live on a pension and cannot afford to go to a doctor all the time to have this problem checked.

Can you tell me what I can do daily to keep my blood pressure down as this might be a problem as I get older.

DEAR READER–A single blood pressure measurement is not a very good index of what your pressure usually is. That is why doctors often take several determinations if the reading is high. So don't put too much faith in that one reading which was "just a little high." For mildly elevated blood pressure the best treatment is often weight control, exercise and limiting salt intake. That may solve the problem for many.

DEAR DR. LAMB–I have my cholesterol down from 325 to 225, but I have been told that I have bad circulation in my legs and they ache every morning. Is there anything I can do to reduce the hardening in my arteries?

DEAR READER--Your description of your legs aching in the morning bothers me. Leg pains from poor circulation are more apt to occur with exertion, although it is true that in some disorders of circulation muscle cramps can occur without exertion. If you can walk and exert yourself normally I would think that it is less likely that your aching legs are due to poor circulation.

I am not disagreeing with your doctor's statement that you have poor circulation but perhaps your interpretation that this causes your morning leg aches is not correct. You might ask him if you can see a specialist in orthopedics to evaluate your leg discomfort.

It sounds like you are on the right track in decreasing your tendency to atherosclerosis (hardening of the arteries). It is important to keep your cholesterol level down. That is usually accomplished by diet and exercise. There are medicines that will help in some cases if this fails to do the trick.

Keep your weight down, don't smoke, stick to a proper lowfat, low cholesterol diet and, if your legs permit, try to build up your exercise program through walking.

Creative and artistic ventures are favored for you this coming year. Follow your urges along these lines and they could open up new vistas for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone may try to set a snare for you in an important matter today. To escape the trap, call on your experience and keep your wits about you. Find out who you're romantically suited to by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A drone today may try to get his share of the honey you've worked hard to accumulate. Do your best to keep him out of your hive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Pressing your mate to emulate someone else would be a mistake today. He or she wouldn't fit another's mold any more than you would.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Though you get along well with most people today, avoid those with whom you've had trouble in the past. They could cause some problems.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're better at handling finances today than yesterday, and you could accumulate a few bucks. Caution: Don't let any bills become past due.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A good sense of humor and a philosophical outlook are your big attributes today. This is excellent — you may have some abrasive types to deal with!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If there's something you're doing that hasn't produced the desired results, get off it now. You can find better ways to deal with the situation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Follow your better judgment and your instincts today. Going against either will create chaos rather than order and accomplishment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may do something that's a departure from your usual method today. It's a bit of a gamble, but if you're a good actor you can pull it off.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't close your mind today, even though you're creative and imaginative yourself. Others could contribute something to embellish your ideas.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be patient in business involvements today. Conditions that surround them are good, but you could lose out by wanting your payday right now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Tolerance with others careerwise is a must for you today. You could judge them a little too hastily and too harshly.

South wanted to know why North hadn't used Stayman to find the 4-4 heart fit. North replied that he felt three notrump would have been as good a contract as four hearts and that it was just too bad that three out of three finesses had been wrong.

They went on to the next hand without either one seeing that three notrump could have been made in spite of all the misplaced kings. South had chucked his contract at trick one when he put his queen of clubs on West's jack. East had take his king and returned the suit to set up two more club tricks for West.

South should have risen with dummy's ace of clubs at trick one and knocked out the ace of hearts.

West would have won, but would also have been helpless. If he led the 10 of clubs dummy's queen would force East's king and leave South's nine as the master club. If West led a low club, the three would be played from dummy and East would have to play the king. Either way South would score nine tricks.

Riles' tough decision

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State school Supt. Wilson Riles cails his pivotal vote on University of California admissions standards "my most difficult decision" as a UC regent.

Civil rights attorney Nathaniel Colley calls Riles' vote "shocking, outrageous and antiblack."

Riles cast what could be considered the decisive vote Friday as the UC regents voted 13- 12 to give somewhat more weight to standardized test scores in admissions, starting in the fall of 1979.

The faculty - sponsored plan, supported by UC President David Saxon, was prompted by reports of high school "grade inflation" and declining performance by students in the university.

But minority groups said the standardized Scholastic Aptitude Test has a pro-white bias, and predicted the new standards would decrease UC's minority enrollment.

"That vote was anti-black because it means fewer black students will be admitted to the university," said Colley, regional counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

But Riles, the first black elected to statewide office in California, said Sunday night that race was not the issue.

"To me, to have the whole opposition argument to this based on race was very repulsive," he said.

"I think there's a commitment by the regents, certainly since I've been there, that they want more minorities. I haven't detected any conspiracy to eliminate minorities on the basis of color.

"I think the signal that should go forth is that we are committed to excellence," Riles said.

Chiropractic Health Hints
BY DR. RAYMOND SERAFIN, D.C.
A NATURAL HEALTH FAMILY PRACTICE
IF YOU DO NOT ENJOY GOOD HEALTH
CONSULT YOUR CHIROPRACTOR FIRST
HOW NORMAL NERVE FUNCTION CREATES HEALTH
There can be no question that man's upright position has definiate connection with man's achievements. Throughout history, man has worked with arms and hands and brain to overcome obstacles, to provide security for himself and provision for the future, and to develop the arts and sciences. Without man's upright position, many of his accomplishments would have been more difficult or even impossible. However, the upright position, as scientists have pointed out, requires constant muscular control for body balance. Also, under civilized ways of living, muscles often become weak and permit the body to fall into postures which cause strain on the spine. Other causes of spinal strains are occupational stresses, accidents, and the like. Displacement of spinal bones then occurs, resulting in sickness and shortened life. The elementary means to help overcome and prevent such results are now to be considered. A healthier, longer life for each individual can be attained. Many diseases peculiar to the human being have been proved beyond doubt to be caused directly by such spinal displacements, causing, as they do, nerve irritation.
All vital organs, glands, muscles and tissues of the body are able to function normally and remain healthy only as long as they receive normal nerve stimulus. Organs and glands suffer disturbed function; muscles and tissues are healthy or diseased according to their nerve supply.
Nerve stimulus is supplied to all parts of the body by the brain and spinal cord. The spinal cord, housed within the spine, is a continuation of the brain. It is composed of 31 nerve centers, each center sharing in the control of the body. The heart is controlled by these nerve centers in the spine, so also are the lungs, stomach, liver, kidneys and all other organs.
Since the nerves branching from the spinal cord to all parts of the body must pass out between the bones of the spine, a displacement of any bone will subject nerves to pressure and irritation. Removal of that irritation will restore normal function and bring buoyant health.
For more information on NERVE FUNCTION call Dr. R.J. Serafin DC at 846-4732 or write 60 Mission Dr., Pleasanton.

Red Sox reshuffle brass

BOSTON — The owners of the Boston Red Sox fired three top executives Monday, including General Manager Dick O'Connell.

The move was orchestrated by Player Personnel Director Haywood Sullivan and former Red Sox trainer Buddy LeRoux, who are buying the franchise from the estate of the late Thomas A. Yawkey.

Executors of the estate immediately named Sullivan, 47, a former Red Sox substitute catcher, as the new general manager.

In addition to O'Connell, who carried the title of executive vice president, those fired were Assistant General Manager John Claiborne and Vice President Gene Kirby.

The front office shuffling was not unexpected because O'Connell, Claiborne and Kirby were not part of the Sullivan-LeRoux management team, which also includes 11 "limited partners." Yawkey's widow, Jean A. Yawkey, is a member of the group that is buying the team for a reported $15 million from her husband's estate.

However, the firings had not been anticipated until after the official sale transaction next Monday.

The new owners face a crucial Nov. 3 vote by American League owners on the sale.

Ten of the 14 teams, including the Red Sox, must approve, or the franchise reverts back to the Yawkey estate.

O'Connell, general manager since 1965, and in complete control of the team since then, is highly regarded among his peers. It has been speculatehat some AL owners might oppose the sale because of O'Connel's firing.

The executors of Yawkey's estate — Mrs. Yawkey, James Curran and Joseph LaCour — said that the fired executives "did not fit into . . . future plans" of Sullivan and LeRoux.

"Rather than leave the task of dismissal to them," the executors' statement said, "we decided to terminate their employment immediately."

The appointment of Sullivan as general manager was said to be aimed at guiding the franchise through "a critical period in the club's operation."

O'Connell, a close associate of the late Red Sox' owner, is not on speaking terms with Mrs. Yawkey, according to team insiders.

He began his career as business manager of the Boston farm team at Lynn, Mass., in 1946. He became a Red Sox' vice president in 1960. During his tenure as general manager, the team won pennants in 1967 and 1975.

Kirby joined the Red Sox in 1973 and Claiborne came from the Oakland A's in 1975. Claiborne was responsible for signing many Red Sox players to their current long - term contracts.

The Sullivan - LeRoux group was named as successful bidders for the franchise Sept 29.

Several other groups bid for the team, and some reportedly went higher than the $15 million that was accepted by the Yawkey executors.

Yawkey, who owned the team since 1933, died in July, 1976. He was a close personal friend of Sullivan, as is Mrs. Yawkey.

LeRoux, 46, was a Yawkey confidante during his tenure as trainer from 1966-1974.

Cauthen's earnings hit the top

NEW YORK — Steve Cauthen became the first jockey ever to ride winners of $5 million in a single year Monday, then proudly disclosed that he had won $45 in a card game before he made horse racing history.

"All Right, Steve, now you're going for 10," a valet shouted when Cauthen returned to the jockey's room after claiming the $6,000 winners purse in the second race at Aqueduct Race Track, boosting the total earned by his mounts in 1977 to $5,004,312.

"Five million's all right," Cauthen said with a broad smile. "But I made $45 in a card game today."

The 17 - year - old jockey from Walton, Ky., made racing history aboard Rare Joel in the 1/16 mile second race.

After his second-race victory, Cauthen had one second and two thirds to run his total for the day to $11,380, winding up with $5,000,692 for the year after Monday's nine-race card.

Cauthen obviously was pleased with breaking the 5-million barrier, althoughhh it hasn't been his style to make much of his considerbale accomplishment since bursting upon the New York racing scene as an apprent last Nov. 30.

"Nobody's ever done it," said Cauthen. "I hope to make a little more. I still got a long time to go."

He has about nine weeks to become 5 - foot - 1, 95-pound Six Million Dollar Man, a feat that would be extremely difficult since most of the big money stakes in New York are over for the year.

4-A football poll

'Stangs lead EBAL quartet

The East Bay Athletic League placed four teams in the East Bay Prepwriters' Association football poll released this morning.

Although Livermore slipped from fourth to seventh after a humbling 25-0 loss to Dublin Friday, they remained ahead of the Gaels, who placed eighth in the poll. Both teams are 5-2.

The two Danville schools, Monte Vista and San Ramon, sandwich the Valley teams in the sixth and ninth spots. The Mustangs, 6-1, are 4-0 in league play and lead the EBAL by a full game over Livermore, Dublin and San Ramon. The Wolves are 5-2 overall.

It marks the first time this year four EBAl teams are rated in the top ten of the 4-A poll.

time this year four EBAl teams are rated in the top ten of the 4-A poll.

Kennedy of Richmond kept their slim hold of first place in the poll, getting four first place votes to Mission San Jose's three and beating the Fremont School out on points, 67-65.

The Eagles kept their 7-0 record intact with a 26-0 whipping of DeAnza, while the Warriors were busy sweeping up over Kennedy of Fremont, 67-0, to stay 6-0.

Antioch pulled out a 14-9 win over Ygnacio Valley to keep the third spot with a 6-0 record, whil American topped Memorial to remain unblemished at 7-0 and move from sixth to fourth in the poll.

Pittsburg blanked Pleasant Hill 26-0 to secure fifth in the poll, moving up from seventh place. Monte Vista jumped from eighth to sixth after a 17-8 win over Foothill.

The EBAL moves into its fifth week with two important games on tap.

Monte Vista will test its validity against the preseason favorite Livermore. The Cowboys will attempt to rebound from their loss to Dublin They beat the Mustangs 42-0 last year in Livermore.

Dublin hosts San Ramon in battle between two teams tied for second place with Livermore at 3-1. Last year, Dublin edged out San Ramon to knock the Wolves from title contention and after a convincing win over Livermore, they could repeat their feat. The loser can just about forget title hopes.

Livermore is in a must-win situation against the 'Stangs, but MV can afford to lose a game without losing a share of first place.

Amador Valley hosts California and Foothill visits Granada in the other two EBAL contests.

The Dons lost a heartbreaking 21-20 decision to San Ramon Friday for their second consecutive defeat. Cal, meanwhile, still misses running back Chris Miller and quarterback Tom Woodmansee and lost their fourth straight to Granada 40-8 Saturday, scoring their first touchdown of the league season in the game. The Grizzlies are 2-5 overall, the Dons 3-4.

Foothill is still winless on the year, and hope to improve their position against Granada, which finally broke its slump with a decisive win over Cal. The Falcons can't be taken too lightly after losing a 17-8 decision to Monte Vista. Granada lost to MV two weeks ago, 20-7.

Randolph lone Yank

Second baseman Willie Randolph was the only member of the World Champion New York Yankees named to The Associated Press American League All-Star team, which was announced Monday.

In the voting by sports writers and sports broadcasters across the country, Randolph and third baseman George Brett of the Kansas City Royals were the only selections from the two AL division champions.

Randolph received 108 votes, easily outdistancing rookie Bump Wills of the Texas Rangers, who had 64. Brett was an overwhelming choice at third base, receiving 232 votes to 135 for Graig Nettles of the Yankees.

The Boston Red Sox, who finished second to New York in the American League East, placed three players on the team. They were catcher Carlton Fisk, who beat out Thurman Munson of the Yankees, 260-116; shortstop Rick Burleson, an easy choice over Kansas City's Fred Patek, 231-70; and designated hitter Jim Rice, who received 291 votes to 49 for Hal McRae of Kansas City.

It was the first time that the designated hitter position was included on the All-Star team.

Baltimore, Minnesota and California each placed two players on the team, with balloting completed before the playoffs.

Right-handed pitcher Jim Palmer and outfielder Ken Singleton represent the Orioles with first baseman Rod Carew, the AL batting champion, and outfielder Larry Hisle picked from the Twins, and left-handed pitcher Frank Tanana and outfielder Bobby Bonds chosen from the Angels.

Besides Munson and Nettles, who both finished second in the voting at their positions, two other Yankees were high in the balloting. Reliever Sparky Lyle was the runner-up behind Tanana among left-handed pitchers and World Series hero Reggie Jackson was fourth among the outfielders.

Two other Yankees left-handers, Ron Guidry and Don Gullett, finished 3-4 behind Tanana and Lyle, giving New York three of the top four among the southpaw pitchers.

Rice, who divided the season as a designated hitter and outfielder, also received a split vote for the two positions on the ballot. Along with his 291 votes as DH, the Boston slugger received 106 votes as an outfielder, fifth behind Hisle, Singleton, Bonds and Jackson.

Carew, who batted a remarkable .388, was virtually a unanimous selection at first base, receiving a 405 of 420 votes cast. His teammate, Hisle, who led the league with 119 runs batted in, had a much tougher battle in leading the outfield balloting.

Grinfelds wins Dublin bowling

Vesma Grinfelds won three matches in the stair-step finals of the Dublin Excel Moped Open bowling tournament Sunday afternoon at the Dublin '40' Bowl to win the first prize check of $700.

Grinfelds, who won her eighth tournament of the year by copping the local event, was the last of the five women to survive a round-robin between the top ten qualifiers Sunday morning, and thus, had to beat the fourth, third and second place round-robin finishers in order to reach the finals.

Paradoxically, it was the first two head-up confrontations that caused Grinfelds, of San Francisco, the most cause for alarm.

She dropped Canoga Park's Mary Michel, who rolled six pins over her average of 187 in the morning competition, 202-193 and defeated third-place Betty Lenehan, of Las Vegas. Lenehan, one of the top bowlers in Saturday's qualifying brace of 12 games, fell 193-181.

It was to be the only time Grinfelds dipped below 200 in the finals.

Then, against second place Pam Rutherford, Grinfelds longer presence on the lanes paid off as the oil dried up and balls began to hook more. Catching Rutherford, the leading qualifier Saturday, off-guard, Grinfelds won 206-173.

Still, the most impressive win for the most successful of the 136 Western Womns Professional tour members in the event was saved for last, as she bowled over Virginia Norton, 242-155 to alleviate fears she had that a poor showing would embarrass her when the finals are shown on television.

Grinfelds had worried when she barely scraped into the televised final matches with a 215-202 win over Linda Cree that had required Vesma to strike out the last three frames.

Warriors hope to sweep pair

CHICAGO — The Golden State Warriors begin one of those in-and-out, two-games-in-as-many-nights road trips that make life a pain in the knee for National Basketball Association players tonight.

In between airplanes, the Warriors will face the Bulls here tonight and move on to Detroit to play the Pistons tomorrow evening.

The two Midwest Division teams have gotten off to at least a fair start. Chicago, unbeaten in its first three games, fell to Milwaukee Saturday night, while Detroit, though 2-2, beat Denver.

It won't be an easy trip, but the Warriors are not ready to swallow the preaching of that moldy "book" that says be grateful for a split on the road.

"I've never believed in that," said Warrior center Cliff Ray. "I think if we can get these two games, it'll be a good indication of where we're at with our team concept and our defense."

Captain Rick Barry added, "Winning on the road is so important in this league. If you can establish something on the road, you've got something going.

"This will be a good test for our young ball club."

Al Attles, the Warriors head coach, thought his team passed at least a pop quiz by beating San Antonio, 122-117, Saturday night in Oakland, despite yielding 53 free throws to the Spurs — a figure Attles claimed was an unfortunate by-product of the Warriors active defense.

"It was an outstanding game," he said. "We executed better tonight than we did in our other two games.

'Rickey Green came to l[illegible] and did some good things in the backcourt. I think our combinations there, Green with Phil Smithand Charles Dudley with Charles Johnson, are working the way we want," he added, singling out the first round draft choice from Michigan he hopes to nurture into Golden State's long-awaited backourt leader.

Attles took Green aside in the morning shoot-around drill and told him, "to play the way Rickey Green can play.

"He was trying so hard to fit into the team and run the plays, he didn't do the things he was capable of doing," Attles explained.

Green agreed. Not possessing the type of bravado that leads more than a few all-American rookies to believe their past laurels alone should keep them in the starting line-up, Green has admittedly been tight in the first couple of games.

"I was thinkin' about, I have to do good, or I'm comin' out," Green said. "I really haven't been looking to shoot. I'm trying to think about defense and starting the fast break."

Not a bad choice, Rickey. When they win, those are the things the Warriors do.

Print-It drops volleyball tilt

Bobby Lizarragga provided the key saves and Kaey Brokers dumped Print-It, 15-2, 15-7, 15-10 in Tri-Valley Recreation Volleyball play.

For the losers, Linda Goodman and Pris Riding led a solid defense and Liz Macias had some nice serves. Bev Morgan came through with some good returns.

Shirt Shack upended the Silly Servers 15-8, 16-14, 15-9. Sue Watts had clutch defensive play while Carolyn McMillan came throug with some key serves.

San Ramon Swenson's grinded out a 15-13, 6-15, 15-12 win over Pizza Arcade. Cheryl Kato had some outstanding offensive play, while Vero Hill, Jeanne Packard, Paula Yost and Marilyn all played well for the winners.

Buranis Construction rallied to whip Allied Brokers, 14-16, 15-4, 15-0. Tough serves by Leanne Foster pavedthe way for the win. Lily Hanohano backed her up with consistent sets.

For the osers, Sandy Lumm, Bev Harris and Nancy Barri led the offense, while Sandy Montega, Rosanne Putt and Karen Sverson provided key defensive play.

The Coyotes beat the 17ers, 8-15, 15-10, 15-8. Janet Torres keyed the offensive winning effort, while Vicky Hansen had a good defensive game.

Jusy Realand was great on saves and Judy Clawson equally impressive on serves for the 17ers.

The Rotators won a forfeited decision over Harris Realty.

Kane's homecoming bleak

SAN FRANCISCO — Sitting inside a locker room cubicle at Candlestick Park with a number '32' haphazardly etched above his head, the Detroit Lions' prize rookie sat with a cigarette dangling from his lips.

Beads of sweat dripped from his youthful face as he rested his tired and aching arms on a pair of well-worn football pants.

He has been called the "Detroit star of the future" by head coach Hudspeth, but running back Rick Kane is having a heckuva time enjoying the present.

Except, of course, for Sunday, when the San Francisco 49ers greeted him in a manner unbefitting a guest. Kane, the former Amador Valley High School and San Jose State star, was welcomed back to the Bay Area rudely as the 'Niners yielded him just 15 yards on seven carries.

It was Kane's first Black Sunday in the pro ranks.

Kane had averaged 5.1 yards per tote in the Lions' previous five games, carrying 16 times for 82 yards. His 22.7 yard average on kick-off returns was fifth in the National Conference.

"I guess it's a little embarrassing being the first team San Francisco has beaten this year," Kane said of the 28-7 49er romp. "But, look, everyone knew they weren't an 0-5 team."

He's right there. The 'Niners are now 1-5.

Kane, who started his first game Sunday because of limiting injuries to Horace King and Dexter Bussey, gave a typical "we'll be back next week," speech.

Somehow, you believe him. After all, he's been making believers out of his critics.

Briefly enrolled at Oregon three years ago, Kane drew the ire of the coaching staff — and vice-versa — and took his wares to San Jose State. He had what could be called a successful two-year career in the South Bay, breaking the Spartan rushing records for one season (1144 yards) and a career (1967).

Then came the pro draft and it was said that Kane's collegiate injuries would be a deterent to a successful NFL career. And his speed? Well, he'd never be able to outrun even a linebacker.

Actually, Kane ran the 100-yard dash, 440 and mile relay at Amador and breezed through 40 yards in 4.6 at San Jose.

Kane, an optimist from the time he wore his first diaper 22 years ago, said he'd be drafted in the third round. He was.

Despite his insistance that "they're working me in slowly," Kane has been an integral part of the Lion attack. In addition to his rushing and kick-off returns, Kane has caught four passes for 43 yards. He's blocked well and been in on several kick coverage tackles.

Against San Francisco, surviving a firing squad would have been easier than running the ball successfully. The Lions were held to 69 yards overland in 27 carries, not exactly play-off credentials.

"I knew their line would be good," Kane said. "But, I didn't think they would dominate us the way they did."

After six games playing for a living, Kane says the complexity of pro football is another world when compared to college ball.

"There's a helluva lot more you have to learn," he said. "We have at least ten times as many plays to remember here than at San Jose."

Surprisingly, Kane has not found the pro players — celebrated as the meanest anywhere — much tougher than those in the collegiate ranks.

"But then," Kane admitted. "I haven't been in that much."

Despite Detroit's won-lost mark of 3-3, Kane believes the NFC Central - leading Minnesota Vikings can be caught.

"They beat us in Minnesota on a 60-yard flea flicker and the guy was out of bounds," Kane insisted. "We'll beat 'em when they come to town."

In three weeks, an intereseting confrontation will be set up when Kane runs against former Spartan team mate Wilson Faumuina, now a defensive lineman with the Atlanta Falcons.

"I'm glad to hear he's doing well," Kane said. "But, I hope to give him some good licks."

One big difference between the collegiate Kane and the professional version is his manner of dress. At San Jose, it was long-sleeved satin shirts, blue denims and a wide-brimmed hat.

No more. Kane, preparing to greet several local friends, garbed himself in a plain brown shirt, slacks, tie and conservative jacket.

And the hat?

"My dog ate it," he said smiling. "I'm surprised she's still alive."

Kane, whose parents now reside in Concord, owns a house on the shores of Lake Orion, 15 miles north of Pontiac, Michiganere the Lions play their home games in the Silverdome.

"It's a great place to go after practice and just lean back and relax," he said. And how do the women in Chicago and New Orleans compare to those in Stockton and Fresno?

"Hey, you know how shy I am," he said, tongue almost penetrating cheek. Moments later, Kane was outside meeting a dozen or so well-wishers — including a share of attractive females.

Shy, huh?

Miller almost breaks the ice

COLUMBUS, Ga. — Johnny Miller, one of golf's superstars who has been battling a year-long victory drought, found himself in an unfamiliar position over the weekend.

The 30-year old blond, who has captured 17 tournaments and earned more than 1 million, entered Sunday's final round of the $125,000 Southern Open Golf Tournament only three shots behind leader Jerry Pate.

"I've been there plenty times but it's been awhile," said Miller, who won the first tournament here as a pro in 1971.

"I'm not used to being in this position but I'm not nervous," said Miller, whose last victory came in the 1976 British Open. His last tour victory was the Bob Hope Desert Classic 20 months ago.

"Everybody said I had a bad one but I won nearly $140,000 playing in just 17 or 18 tournaments," he said. "That's an average of about $9,000 a tournament and a lot of guys out there would like to win that. This year has ben a legitimate bad year. however."

Miller, however, could not overtake Pate, who fired a 66 Sunday for a 14-under-par 266 and won the $25,000 first prize. Miller was seven strokes back, tied for second with three others.

Miller carded a 70, bogeying three of his last five holes.

"I birdied the first hole and was two-under through six and still found myself five shots behind," said Miller of Sunday's round. "That sort of knocked the wind out of my sails."

Pate had birdied four of his first six holes to take control early in the final round and turn it into a battle for second place.

"I played solid all week but finished poorly," said Miller. "I had a rookie finish, but all in all I'm happy with the week."

Wenzl, Holland win

Alfred Wenzl won 27 games to win the Men's Division and Gail Holland took 27 to take the Women's bracket in the Dublin Tennis Club's Battle of the Sexes Tournament at Dublin High School last weekend.

Al Siason was runner-up in the men's portion, winning 25 games, while Ellen Moore won 17 games to finish second in the women's.

Holland, a new player to the club, was the surprise of the day, with her hard hitting game remaining consistent throughout the tournament to take her to the title.

Herman Koberle took the second flight, while Ernie Ducharme was runner-up. In the women's, Lydia O'Sullivan and Mary Lu Marr finished one-two.

Bill Griffith took the men's third flight and Tom O'Sullivan finished behind him, while Janet Loebs won the women's bracket ahead of Judy St. John.

In the fourth flight, Bob Lall took the men's competition with Bernie Brill runner-up, while Kathy Hickford won the women's title ahead of Rita Ducharme.

This was the final tournament to be sponsored this year by the Dublin Tenn Club. The new season begins in March 1978. 58 players competed in the latest tournament.

Four locals chosen

Four local athletes have been selected to Babe Ruth Baseball's Athlete of the Year program for 1977, announced yesterday by Richard W. Case, President of Babe Ruth International.

Gregory David Devine, Mike Paul Rennels, Jeffrey Trace Wallis and Scott Senden, all of Pleasanton, were nominated.

Nominations were made earlier this summer by Babe Ruth league managers and presidents from across the nation.

The athletic achievements of each local honoree will be presented in the 1977 edition of "Babe Ruth Baseball" 'Athletes of the Year' Annual to be published in December. It will be presented to the Baseball Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y. for permanent display.

Walsh feels old

Cal down, but not out

SAN FRANCISCO — "We may be down, but we're not out," California head coach Mike White said yesterday about his disappointed Golden Bears.

"I read just the other day that I'm the oldest coach in the Pacific-8," said Stanford's Bill Walsh. I'm beginning to feel it."

Cal was a two-point loser, 21-19 to UCLA, and Stanford nipped Washington State, 31-29, in a pair of Pac-8 thrillers Saturday. The Bears will face Southern California before a full house at Memorial Stadium in Berkeley Saturday while Stanford travels to Oregon State.

White reminded, "We were in the same position two years ago. We came back from UCLA with our tails between our legs."

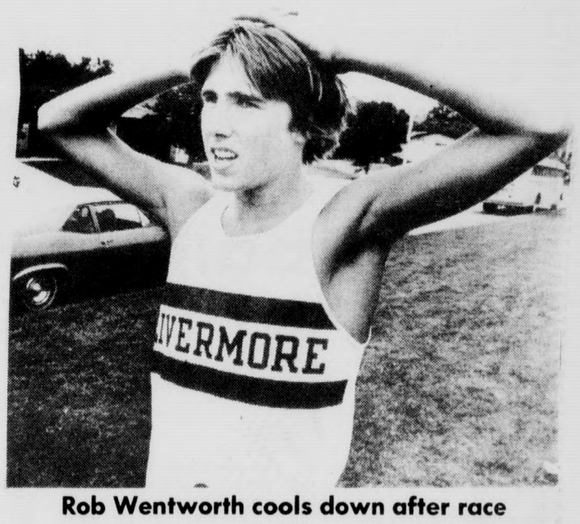
The 1975 Cal team upset Southern Cal, with the late Joe Roth playing a starring role. Saturday's game will be the first Joe Roth Memorial Game, a tribute to the quarterback who died of cancer early this year.

"This will be Cal's first sell-out, except for a Big Game against s Stanford, since 1953. It's a fitting tribute to Joe Roth and the way he would have wanted it — a lot of people watching two good football teams," White said.

Two Cal defensive starters, linebacker Burl Toler and tackle Pat Graham, have injuries which could keep them out of the USC game. But this year's squad has good defensive depth, as Trojan coach John Robinson noted in a telephone interview.

"This year, you have to talk about Cal's defense as well as their offense. I know that sometimes in the past, they had a moment of prayer before talking about the defense," Robinson said.

Although Cal's overall record is 5-2, the same as USC's, the Bears are 1-2 in the conference.



Rob Wentworth cools down after race

Wentworth 4th at P. Hill

PLEASANT HILL — Livermore High School's Rob Wentworth was the best thing two East Bay Athletic League schools, entered in the Pleasant Hill High School/Kennedy Memorial Jamboree Invitational cross-country meet here Saturday.

Wentworth ran a 9:24 over the two-mile course to place behind winner Dave Coulman of St. Mary's, who dashed off a 9:13. Skyline's Tom Downs wasecond in 9:13.6, just a few strides back, while Steve Strangio of Mission San Jose was third in the large school, boys varsity division.

San Ramon, in the small division, got a second from Jim Anklam, who ran 9:32 behind winner Mark Conover of Miramonte. Conover paced the field in 9:23.

Two other San Ramon runners helped the Wolves their sixth-place team finish. Mark Baker raced three seconds behind Anklam to take third while Bret Baffert was tenth in 9:50.

The Wolf girls placed fifth with 171 points as Diana Bateman led San Ramon with a 12th-place, 12:02 finish.

Todd, Stabler stir memories

NEW YORK — Caught in their own time machine, Kenny Stabler and Richard Todd took the National Football League back to another era Sunday, a time when passing shootouts were routine and defensive backs fell like tin cans on a picket fence.

Stabler, the wise, old passer of the Oakland Raiders, won the showdown with Todd, the quick, young, New York Jet quarterback, in a shootout that seemed suited to a dusty western street with the toughened old gunfighter outdrawing the ambitious newcomer.

Todd won the statistical battle with 396 yards and four touchdowns, all of them in the first half. But Stabler won the war, passing for 230 yards and three TD's — two of them in the final period to deliver a 28-27 victory.

"It was like an old type game," said Raider coach John Madden. "It was up and down the field, like an oldtime AFL game."

Stabler and Todd weren't around when the AFL teams were strafing each other with aerial bombs but they could appreciate the nostalpia their passing show set off.

"Playing in these kind of games is fun, provided you win," said Stabler, who won with the last quarter touchdown passes of seven yards to Fred Biletnikoff and 24 yards to Mike Siani. The Oakland quarterback completed 19 of 26 attempts and did an expert job of bringing the Raiders back from a 27-14 deficit.

For the Jets, Todd's yardage total was the sixth best in club history. The first five belong to a fellow named Joe Namath.

"I guess you could say I reminded some people of another New York quarterback," said Todd, who completed 17 of 29. "It was a nice day for me."

But even four touchdown passes, including an 87-yard bomb to Wesley Walker that was the longest completion in the American Conference this season, couldn;t comfort Todd. The Jets, after all, had lost this hootout.

"Winning, that's the only important thing," the quarterback said.

Was he impressed with those Namath-like numbers.

"I'm impressed when we win," he said. "If I pass for five yards and we win, that'll impress me."

The Lets lost because placekicker Pat Leahy missed an extra point and a pair of field goals, one from 32 yards and the other from 26.

"I was pressing, that's all," said the kicker. "It's over now. I haven't lost confidence in myself. I'll just have to work long and hard to make up for it."

Lost in the oassing fireworks was a 143-yard rushing day for Oakland's Mark van Eeghen, who carried 36 times and scored the first Raider TD on a three-yard plunge.

"We had a bad ball game," said the big back. "Anytime the offense has to give the ball to one person 30-some times, there's something wrong."

DVC Loses Big

"Darn it, they're a good football team, but we didn't play more than 20 minutes of good football."

That was how Sam DeVito, Diablo Valley College coach summarized the Vikings' humiliating 59-7 loss to Bakersfield City College in the Central Valley city Saturday night.

And DeVito and crew, now 1-4-1 after the non-conference game, must prepare for Golden Gate Conference-leading Laney College next Satruday in Pleasant Hill.

"They (Laney) seem to be rolling pretty good," DeVito said. "We're going to have to do a lot of work this week to make a ballgame out of it."

The Vikes were unable to make a game out of it against tough Bakersfield, now 4-2. The hosts rolled up an incredible 31 points in the second quarter to leave DVC in the dust.

"We ran into a good football team," DeVito said, "But we gave up some very easy scores on fumbles and interceptions.

How Mt. Diablo will be repaired

CONCORD — State parks officials will unveil a two-point platform this week on utilization of the Restore Mt. Diablo fund to replant two areas of the fire-ravaged mountain park.

Although most areas of Mt. Diablo burned in the massive August fire are growing back naturally, some replanting of the region will be necessary, according to park officials.

A public hearing on the issue will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Contra Costa Water District office, 1331 Concord Ave., Concord.

Representatives of the State Department of Parks and Recreation and William Penn Mott, president of the California State Parks Foundation, will be present.

Mott told the Times that state park representatives believe two areas of the mountain need re-planting.

According to Mott, those areas of the mountain scarred by bulldozers fighting to contain the fire will need to be re-planted with vegetation natural to the terrain.

Other sections of the mountain which may need replanting are those areas where the fire was so hot that seeds were damaged and will not grow back. Mott said park officials would like to observe these areas this winter to decide where re-planting is necessary.

One damaged area that will be closely watched is a site on the north slope of the mountain where coulter pine trees grow. Mt. Diablo, Mott explained, is the only place in the world where these trees grow.

Park officials are interested in observing the "natural re-planting of the pines this winter, said Mott.

State officials will explain this process to people who attend the public hearing, he added.

Another portion of the hearing will be devoted to an explanation on how much re-planting is necessary.

"When people heard of the re-planting fund they thought of 100 Monterey Pines," Mott said. The foundation president said most of the burned portion of Mt. Diablo is growing back naturally.

Armonda Norieda, a ranger at Mt. Diablo State Park, confirmed this statement.

He said most of the vegetation on the brown area of the mountain "is starting to come back slowly." He added chapparral bushes are beginning to sprout.

Bruce Batholomew, a botanist at the botanical garden at UC Berkeley, agreed that the area will grow back naturally.

He said a lot of seeds will begin to germinate as soon as the first rains come. He said unless the first rain is "a real gully washer" re-planting will be at a minimum level.

He added most of the vegetation on Mt. Diablo is "geared for fires" through evolution and will have no problem coming back.

Some re-planting, however, will be necessary. Mott said the study and re-planting of the bulldozed and heat-ruined areas will cost $15,000. So far the Restore Mt. Diablo Fund has raised almost $17,000.

Citizens, Mott added, can discuss what should be done with any extra money.

One suggestion Mott has heard is to use extra money to acquire additional park land. Mott, however, disagreed with this suggestion.

"I don't think that (acquistion) was the intent of the people who gave money," he said, "so, in my mind, it is an improper use of the funds."

Nevada law no good here

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Court of Appeal upheld Monday a $1.1 million damage award against the University of Nevada and state of Nevada stemming from a 1968 California auto crash in which a small boy suffered severe brain injury.

It ruled it was proper for an Alameda County Superior Court to refuse to apply a Nevada state law limiting damage awards in injury actions to $25,000.

The personal injury suit was brought on behalf of John Michael Hall, now 11, through his parents John and Patricia Hall. The jury awarded the boy $1 million and his mother $150,000.

The accident occurred near Auburn and involved a collision of the Hall vehicle and one driven by Helmut Bohm, an employe of the University of Nevada who was official business at the time.

Before trial, the university and the state won a move to quash the suit on grounds Nevada was not subject to suit in California under sovereign immunity.

But the California Supreme Court unanimously reversed that ruling and the U.S. Supreme Court denied review when Nevada appealed.

The defendants then unsuccessfully moved to limit damages to $25,000 per person under a Nevada law which is part of legislation by which that state waived immunity from suit.

The defendants had contended if Nevada is held liable in California that liability is subject to the $25,000 limit. It claimed if California accepts the waiver, it must accept the limitation.

New bridge

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state asked for bids today on replacement of the Dumbarton Bridge, a narrow and sometimes dangerous 50-year-old span across San Francisco Bay.

Construction of a new bridge was authorized by the legislature over opposition from several San Francisco Peninsula communities, which objected to the planned exit routes on the west side of the bay.

The state Transportation Department called for bids today on the portion of the new bridge above the main shipping channel, estimated at $27 million. The entire project will take five years and cost more than $103 million, the department said.

The current bridge, from Menlo Park to Newark, has two lanes, no median barrier and no shoulder along the 1.2 miles which cross the shipping channel.

Texas tour

ARMSTRONG, Tex. (AP) — The heir to the British throne donned cowboy gear, chaps and all, to ride the Texas range. But he sat on an English saddle.

Prince Charles was on horseback Sunday riding through a herd of cattle with his hosts, Tobin and Anne Armstrong, who was ambassador to the Court of St. James under former President Gerald Ford.

It was the start of a three-day tour of the Lone Star State.

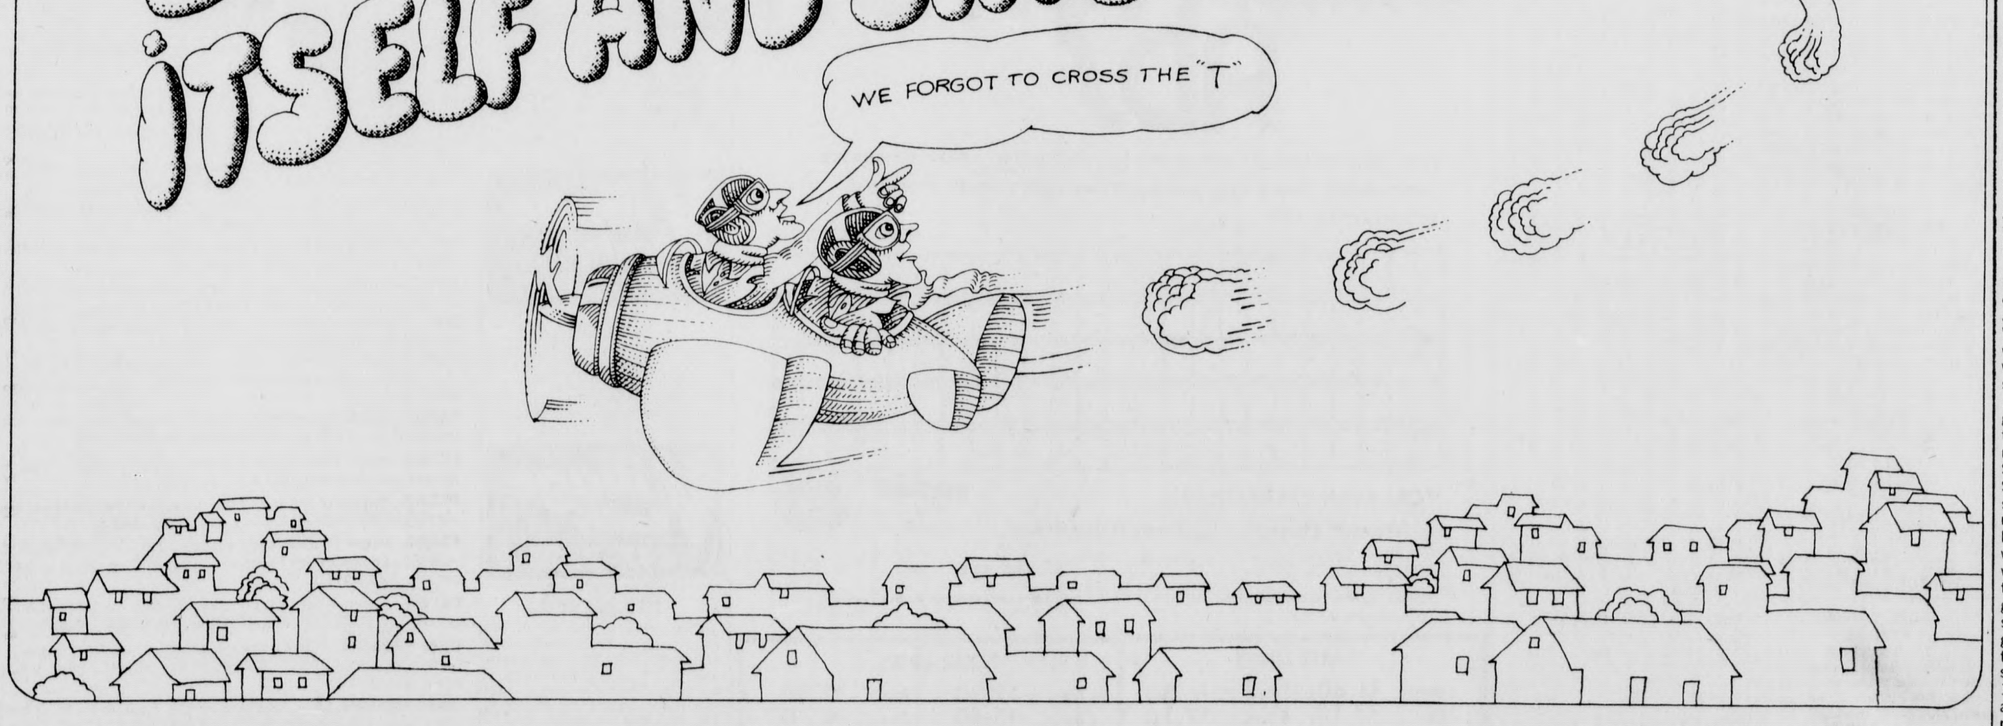
ATTIC INSULATION CAN SAVE ENOUGH HEAT TO PAY FOR ITSELF AND SAVE MONEY, TOO.



That's news that's worth spreading around. The fact that insulating the attic can save the average home owner at least $50 a year in heating costs, means that over the long haul, attic insulation will not only pay for itself, but will save money...and energy...too.

And in these days of energy shortages, we'd better save all we can.

Here's another plus. PG&E will make insulating your home easier by arranging free estimates from two qualified contractors, to help you get the right price. If you request it, we'll inspect the work when it's done. And we'll give you a certificate of installation to R-19 standards, which may come in handy if you ever decide to sell your home.

All in all, you've got a lot to gain. So if you want help in contractor referrals, or more information, call PG&E's Energy Conservation Center, toll free, at 800-792-8000, Monday through Friday, 8 AM to 8 PM. (If your telephone area code is 805, call collect to 415-543-2073.) Or fill out and mail the coupon or return it with your bill payment.

Do it now, before winter sets in. So you can feel warm all over about the money you'll save.
